YOUR TAX DOLLARS AT WORK

When residents entrust their tax dollars to the City of Hilliard, how are they it re-invested in our community? Great question! Let's look at what happens to your local income tax and property tax dollars, and how the City works to be a good steward of the resources entrusted to it.

Income Taxes

The City of Hilliard's primary funding source is a 2-percent income tax paid by individuals who:

- Work within Hilliard corporate limits (regardless of where they live) or
- Live in this community and do not pay at least 2-percent local income tax to another municipality.

At 2 percent, Hilliard's income tax rate is lower than that collected by Columbus and Worthington (2.5 percent) and is the same as that paid by Dublin, Grove City, and Westerville. So, residents who work in any of those communities get a 2-percent credit and do not pay income taxes to Hilliard.

About 70 percent of general fund revenue comes from income taxes. We also receive revenue from sources such as service fees, real estate taxes, fines, permits, licenses, earnings on investment, government shared tax, and grants.

Regardless of whether they pay taxes to the City, every

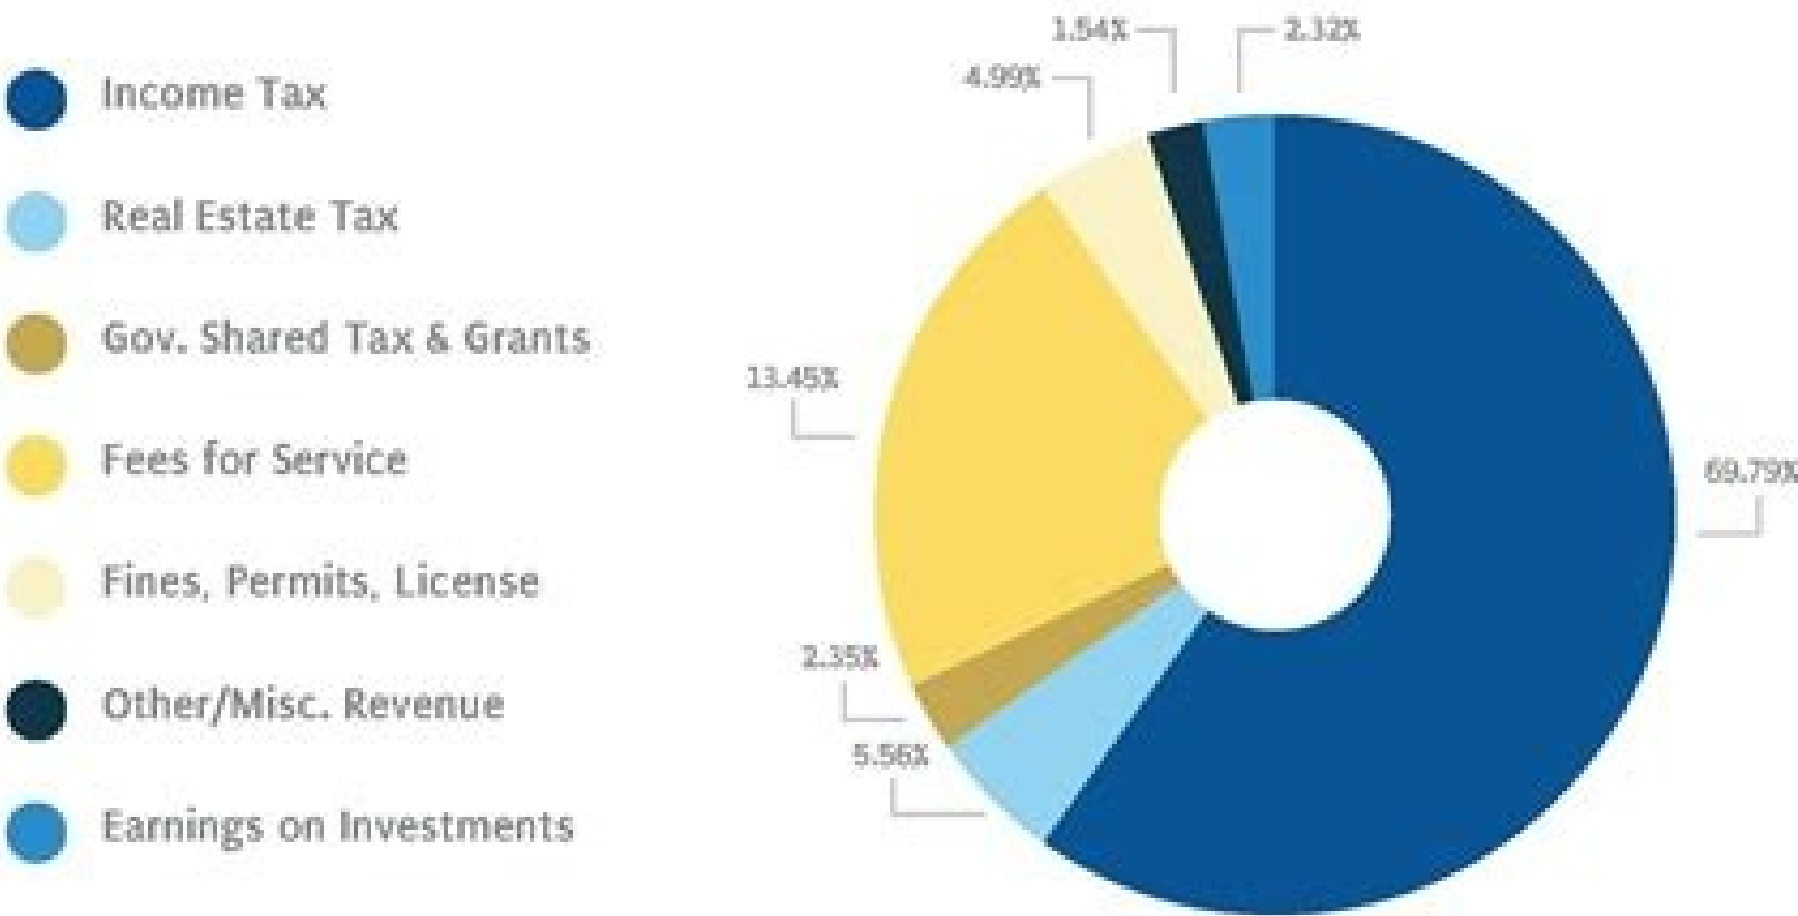

Did You Know?

In 2019, the City of Hilliard received a Moody's Investors Service Aaa bond rating, the highest rating Moody's provides. Moody's also reports that it projects a stable outlook for the City's financial future. As of 2019, only 15 other municipalities in Ohio had a Aaa rating.

Hilliard resident age 18 and older must file an income tax form through RITA – the Regional Income Tax Agency. No tax return is required for retirees with no earned income or those who are permanently disabled, however you must register with the city. A link to RITA can be found at hilliardohio.gov/taxes/.

In 2019, the City collected $28.8 million in income taxes from withholding, business income, and individuals. The City reinvests much of this money into our community through capital projects such as road construction, parkland acquisition and development, infrastructure, and other amenities that improve quality of life, promote economic development, and attract and retain businesses. In 2019, $17.8

Injured in a car accident and need help obtaining your accident report? We can help. Call us at 419-455-1410 or contact us online to ask us questions about your accident. After you've been involved in a traffic accident in Columbus, Ohio, a car accident report is an important document to acquire. Depending on the circumstances of the accident, you might be thinking about either filing an insurance claim or filing a lawsuit. In either case, it's a good idea to get a copy of your Columbus, Ohio accident report. By having this document, you will be able to produce a key piece of evidence. Although you can obtain a Columbus crash report on your own, you may still want to consider hiring an attorney. A qualified Ohio car accident attorney can help you get and understand your car accident report. They can then help you determine whether you have a claim. What Exactly Are Columbus Crash Reports? Ohio law enforcement agencies use a form called the "OH-1" or "OH-1 Traffic Crash Reports" to record things like car accidents. Unlike some states, there is no law that requires local residents to file their own Columbus, Ohio crash reports. Request a Copy of Your Accident Report Traffic accident reports from Columbus, Ohio, are filed at the Ohio Department of Public Safety (ODPS). One way you can acquire your Columbus crash report is by going to the ODPS website and searching their database for Columbus, Ohio accident reports. If your car accident happened recently, your Columbus crash reports may not be available on the ODPS website. A good rule of thumb is to expect your Columbus police accident report to take up to six weeks to appear on the ODPS website. Required Information for Unofficial Columbus Ohio Car Accident Reports You will need to provide some information to acquire your Columbus police accident report. On the ODPS website, you can obtain Columbus police accident reports by providing the crash number and any relevant document numbers. Alternatively, you can provide the following information: Last name, Crash start date, Crash end date, The county in which the crash occurred, and The law enforcement agency that investigated the crash. Crash reports are available on ODPS's website for about five years. It's also important to note that the Columbus, Ohio car accident reports that are stored on the ODPS website are not considered official reports. That fact notwithstanding, you can obtain an unofficial Columbus, Ohio car accident report free of charge. How to Get Official Columbus Ohio Traffic Accident Reports from the City of Columbus To obtain an official Columbus police accident report, your best bet is to contact the agency that investigated your crash, like the Columbus Police Department or the Ohio State Highway Patrol. Official Columbus, Ohio traffic accident reports can be found on the City of Columbus's website. To conduct a search for a Columbus police accident report, you need to submit the following information on the City's website: First name, Last name, Address, Email, Phone number, Report number, Vehicle driver's name, and Owner's name (if different from driver). The final pieces of information you must include to obtain Columbus police crash reports are the time and location of the crash. You can obtain either a digital copy or a physical photocopy of the Columbus police department accident report. Digital copies are free of charge, but the fee for a physical photocopy is $.05 per page. You can pay the photocopy fee by cash, money order, or a certified check made payable to: City of Columbus Treasurer - Police. The address for the Columbus Division of Police's Records Unit is 120 Marconi Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43215. Keep in mind that personal checks are not accepted. Need More Information? Once you've obtained your Columbus police department accident report, it's always a good idea to contact an experienced car accident attorney. Depending on the circumstances of your accident, you may have to deal with aggressive insurance companies and other third parties who are adverse to your interests. Thankfully, you don't have to fight these groups alone. Here at Besinger Law, we can help you stand up for your rights. First, we will work with you to review your case, investigate the accident, and collect the evidence we need to win.
